ACTIVITIES FOR LEARNING THE COLORS

By: Yazmin Martinez

Recognizing the colors and identifying the color names is an important part of a child's development. Early identification of colors helps to create the cognitive link between visual clues and words.

Color Matching Egg Set

These eggs not only work on color matching, but color recognition.

Color Sorting

Learning how to sort things can help organizational skills and learn the colors. Sorting activities are also great for learning that things can be different and the same.
